Talk to your health care provider for further guidance if you have a condition or are taking medications that weaken the immune system.

Follow federal, state, local, or territorial rules and regulations, including business and workplace guidance that may change based on local transmission rates.

Resume activities and gatherings without wearing a mask or physically distancing where rules and regulations allow.

For more information, visit idsociety.org/covid-19.